

ABSTRACT

This invention relates to a device for illuminating oral cavity. A bite block 135 comprised of a flexible biocompatible sterilizable molded material encapsulates within the molded material a battery, a pressure-sensing switch and a light. When a dental patient applies pressure to the bite block placed between the teeth, the light illuminates the oral cavity.